To all Students and Instructors,

Thank you for your interest in the work of the Black Mamas Matter Alliance. Please note that we receive an EXTREMELY HIGH VOLUME of requests from students and instructors wanting to do interviews and/or data collection for course projects. At this time, we are NOT able to engage in these requests.

Students - please understand that it is disrespectful to send multiple emails with "unprofessional tone" and/or posting aggressive comments on our social media posts, demanding that someone from our staff responds to your request because of a course assignment deadline. That is NOT our responsibility.

Instructors - please note that assigning student to reach out to organizations, especially community-based organizations led by people of color, without proper outreach ahead of time; partnership development; consent by the org to be engaged in such projects; and/or project agreements is an unethical practice and sets a bad example of how future professionals should engage with organizations.

It is preferred that students and course instructors review the available resources and information that is already posted on our website here: <https://blackmamasmatter.org/resources/>. Please properly reference and cite any information you retrieve from our website. Additionally, please DO NOT extract our logo(s) for any presentation, videos, etc.

Feel free to sign-up for our newsletter here in order to stay up-to-date with our latest initiatives and other ways to get engaged.

Again, we THANK YOU for your interest in conducting course work/projects on BMMA. We hope that the resources and information already available on our website and social media accounts can be of use in your continued interests in better understanding structural, environmental, cultural, and behavioral issues impacting health outcomes.

Good luck and many blessings in your academic endeavor!
